NATIONAL POLICING IMPROVEMENT AGENCY (NPJA)

Headquarters: National Policing Improvement Agency, 4th Floor, 10 Victoria Street, London SW1H 0NN. Tel: (020) 7084 8841.

Website: www.npia.police.uk.

The National Policing Improvement Agency has been established under the Police and Justice Act 2006, and will be operational from 1 April 2007. The NPJA will be based at a number of sites across the country from April 2007. The agency will support self-improvement across the police service and drive forward major national change programmes for policing in England and Wales. It will also have a strong relationship with policing bodies in Scotland and Northern Ireland and will collaborate with them on some initiatives.

The Police Information Technology Organisation (PITO) and Centrex will be abolished and NPJA will take over responsibility for the majority of their work. NPJA will also assume responsibility for some ACPO-led programmes of work and some Home Office activities that relate directly to policing.

2 Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) is an executive non-departmental public body sponsored by, but rationally independent from, the Home Office. SOCA has been formed by amalgamating the National Crime Agency (NCA), National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS), the part of HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) which it with drug trafficking and associated criminal finance, and the part of UK Immigration (UKIS) which dealt with organised immigration crime. SOCA is an intelligence-led agency with law enforcement powers and harm reduction responsibilities. Harm in this context is the damage caused to people and communities by serious organised crime.
